REPORT OF SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

To the School Board and Citizens of Greenfield:

I respectfully submit my twelfth annual report as Superintendent of schools:

A year ago I called your attention to the increasing costs of public schools, and made the statements that money expended for sound education is not to be regarded as a burdensome cost but as a productive investment; that the greatest waste we can make is to spend too little on education; and that every community should plan its budget with a view to making its schools as effective as possible.

Today the greatest hindrance to effective schools is the lack of a sufficient number of well qualified teachers. Contrary to the supposition that the ending of the war and the cessation of war industries would release a great many teachers to resume their profession, it has resulted, rather, in the case of women teachers, in a demand to be released from teaching by many whose husbands are discharged from the service. It is true that more men teachers are available as a result of the demobilization, but the great majority of teachers are women.

Two hundred and eighty thousand teachers in the United States left the profession during the war because they could not live on the salaries they were receiving. Some 80,000 emergency teachers with inferior qualifications have come in; thousands of positions have been abolished; class rooms have been crowded; and there are still around 10,000 unfilled teaching positions. The number of people training to become teachers dropped 60% during the war period. The schools of the Nation are confronted with a most critical situation which can only be remedied by making the teaching profession more attractive to young people, and that means, primarily, higher salaries.

According to the latest compilation of annual average salaries by states, twenty-two of the forty-eight states were paying higher average salaries than New Hampshire. In other words country-wide average salaries are about the same as New Hampshire is paying. Our near neighbors to the South are paying from one-half to two-thirds as much again in salaries, and the average salary in New York State is nearly double that in New Hampshire. It is only natural that we should lose many of our best teachers.

A tabulation of salaries paid to Elementary teachers in New Hampshire this year shows that:

In the sixty-three small towns with less than 600 population the lowest salay paid is $1,000, but only sixteen towns are paying less than $1,200; eleven towns are paying from $1,400 to $1,500; the five towns of this Supervisory Union that fall in this population group (Francestown, Greenfield, Lyndeborough, Mason and Temple) are paying from $1,200 to $1,350.

The fifty-two towns in the population range from 600 to 1,000, including New Ipswich, are paying from $1,000 to $1,850.

The twenty-nine towns with populations from 1,000 to 1,500, including Greenville, are paying from $1,100 to $1,900.

The twenty-six towns including Wilton in the population range from 1,500 to 2,500 are paying from $1,000 to $2,200 per year for elementary teachers.

Many of the smaller towns find it difficult to raise the money to pay higher salaries, but until the State Legislature appropriates more money for State Aid than it has done in the past there seems to be no other way to secure well qualified teachers, or indeed any teacher at all for some positions. Most teachers will take a position that involves a single grade or at most two grades rather than several grades, which makes it doubly hard to secure teachers for rural schools.

Last year's budget estimate of $2,600 for teachers' salaries was not sufficient. In view of this and the circumstances suggested above it would seem to be wise to make an allowance of $3,000 for teachers' salaries for next year. This increase of $400 will be offset by a decrease of a like amount in the cost of transportation which was estimated at $1,200 last year and is costing a little less than $800. The only other important change in the budget as compared with last year is in the item of "Expenses of Administration," which is increased to $142 to cover the School District's contribution to the Teachers' Retirement Fund as provided in the last Legislature's amendment to the Retirement Act, requiring each School Disrict to pay in to the Retirement Fund 4% of the previous year's salary of teachers belonging to the Retirement Association. The estimated total amount required to meet the budget is $6,250 which is $290 more than last year. The only assured income of the District is the Dog Tax which is estimated at $150. We do not anticipate any State Aid allotment, but no information on that point has been given out by the State Board of Education. If such information is available at the time of the March meeting a correction can be made then.

Ordinarily the unexpended balance of this school year would be applied to reducing the assessment required for next year, but we believe the District would be wise in holding such unexpended balance in reserve to meet possible contingencies such as failure to find a suitable teacher, which would require us to make other arrangements for the children in the upper grades.

At the request of the School Board Mr. Paul Farnum, Field Representative of the State Board of Education, has made a study of the possibilities of remodelling the first floor and basement of the school building with a view to providing an adequate heating system, flush toilets on the first floor, and modern class room facilities with improved lighting. All of these improvements are greatly needed and it would not seem wise to undertake certain major repairs in the building without making them a part of such a plan as has been suggested. Mr. Farnum's suggested plan is based on the new two-room building recently built in Francestown and would provide as modern accommodations as are featured in that building. We hope the School District may find it possible to finance these improvements as soon as the necessary building materials are available.

Respectfully submitted,

VERNON S. AMES,
Superintendent of Schools
